SCHNURER BRIAN

COACH CRUNCHED BY CRITTER -- Elk Point Minor Hockey coaches more than met their match when they took on the CFCW Country Critters on Sunday. The big furry fellow who heads the visiting team had a lot of tricks up his sleeve. Story on Page 2.

Final touches for Friday's Christmas Extravaganza

Elk Point merchants are decking the halls and loading the shelves in preparation for this Friday's Christmas Extravaganza. The ninth annual late night shopping event will feature a bonfire in the middle of Main Street, a visit from Santa, free hot chocolate and lots of special buys to help everyone get in the mood for Christmas.

Work is underway on the outdoor skating rink, which weather permitting will be ready for use on the big night. Horse drawn hay rides will also go if weather permits.

A coloring contest for three age groups, under 5, 6-8 and 9-12, is underway with entry forms available at the Elk Point Elementary School and Woody's Trophy and Gifts. Entry deadline is 5 p.m. on Thursday, November 30 to allow for judging. Three prizes will be given in each age division.

Shoppers will also have chances to win prizes. Draws for $300, $200 and $100 in Elk Point Bucks, will be made at 11 p.m. from the draw slips deposited at 23 participating businesses throughout the evening. The Bucks are redeemable for merchandise and services at those businesses until December 31, 1995.

Division chairs share Agricultural Society president's role

Equality rules on the 1995 executive of the Elk Point Agricultural Society, with five directors selected from the membership of the A. G. Ross Arena Operating Committee and five from the Fairgrounds and Livestock Division, and the chairs of those two divisions serving as co-presidents for the society.

Brian Schnurer of the Fairgrounds and Livestock Division Dave Cousins of the Arena Operating Committee had originally been elected as first and second vice-presidents, however when no nominees agreed to let their name stand for president, a motion was made that the two become co-presidents, each with equal status, and both to sign all documents on behalf of the Society.

Betty Callbeck will serve as treasurer and Donna Bassett as secretary for the group, which meets four times per year to administer grants and oversee the two divisions.

Directors representing the Arena Operating Committee are Doug Bassett, Mike McDonald, Yvette Bochon, Al Pankiw and a representative of the Skating Club, while Charlene Baker, Bob Baker, Glen Harms, Peter Veer and Wendy Young will represent the Fairgrounds and Livestock Division.

The November 20 General Meeting also discussed the 1994-95 financial statement, which showed a significant decrease in long term debt. The Society is applying to get an exemption on GST for their fundraising activities, which they understand some societies have obtained, and which would allow more of the funds raised to go toward debt reduction.

In other business discussed at the meeting, the Fairgrounds and Livestock Division is preparing an application for a small Community Facility Enhancement Grant to complete the inside superstructure of the riding barn, and will be bringing it to the Society for their approval. The booth deposits from five families who did not work their shifts are to be turned over to the Arena Operating Committee by the Ag Society, which had collected these prior to the division into two operating groups.

Cow Calf Association seeks drought relief

By Alban Bugej

Alberta Cow Calf Association

The Alberta Cow Calf Association met with the provincial Minister of Agriculture, Walter Paszkowski on November 22 to discuss the drought in northeastern Alberta.

The ACCA asked for an immediate cash payment of $40 per acre for hard hit producers to help them meet their 1995 financial commitments and to purchase livestock feed for the coming winter. This is the same position taken by the counties and municipalities of northeastern Alberta on the drought issue.

Under normal conditions the average cow calf producer purchases 25% of his feed requirements. This year the average is about 75%. Considering feed prices are up about 40% and the return from the sale of a calf is down by about 100, keeping a cow this winter will cost producers and additional $300 to $400.

The ACCA pointed out to the Minister that this additional expense could result in the liquidating of cow herds in the region, an action the ACCA does not recommend. The Minister agreed that liquidating Alberta's cow herds is not desirable, but to maintain the cow herds, producers must be in a position to afford to keep them. That could only be achieved by an immediate cash injection.

The Alberta Cow Calf Association feels that the recently announced Farm Income Stability Program (FISP) could at best only address a minimal fraction of this year's drought losses. To start with, FISP is not designed to address negative margins, a condition that already exists within northeast Alberta because of the prolonged drought. Secondly, FISP is very slow in responding. Any payout for the 1995 tax year will not be in the hands of producers until the later part of 1996.

The ACCA feels that is no help at all. Producers need a cash injection now to pay their outstanding financial commitments for the 1995 crop year and to purchase winter feed.

Whether a disaster is the result of floods or drought, it is still a disaster. "How is it southern Alberta got immediate relief after last summer's floods and northeastern Alberta gets nothing during this drought which has been with us on and off for over 10 years?" asks Harvey Aarbo, ACCA President. "Northeastern Alberta is still not being treated fairly."

Coaches crushed by Country Critters

Elk Point Minor Hockey coaches found out they were no match for the CFCW Country Critters on Sunday, although they definitely tried harder. It was just that the big guy on the visiting team, the furry Critter himself, was a whole lot of opposition in his own right.

The game started off quite well, with Pat Brodbin putting the Coaches on the scoreboard first, three minutes into the game. Along with the applause and a photo with the Critter... he got a face full of pie! The Critter then scored one for the visitors to tie it up.

An Elk Point goal with about 4 minutes left in the first period got the whole Coaches' team a penalty for obstruction, which left the way clear for another goal by their furry opponent. Rumors that the Critter had paid the referees may be unsubstantiated. The next Elk Point goal somehow found its way onto the Critters' side of the scoreboard, and the Critters made another iffy goal with 2 seconds left on the clock.

The tiny tots took to the ice during the first intermission, for a mini game which featured the Critter and referee Mark Woytkiw in the goals. The white squad won 1 to 0.

The score leapt to 6-3 for the Critters early in the second, with Doug Bassett and Mike McDonald narrowing the gap before all hockey action stopped for a line dance by the Critter and his cronies. The Critter then wrestled down Normie Quinney to distract the Coaches while his team marked up another point. Two Coaches were soon in the sin bin, with Keith Campbell getting 2 minutes for standing in the way and Doug Bassett 2 minutes for tripping. Speaking of tripping, Dave Cousins did, and was immediately given CPR by the Critter - whether he needed it or not. A quick switch saw the Elks given cutaway sticks, but when all the Critters were felled by the sound of a shot, Campbell used his holey stick to get a goal.

Quinney had another bout with the Critter, and got 5 minutes in the box for Critter abuse. He was followed into the penalty box by the Critter, who was immediately mugged by a crew of Minor Hockey players which we presume was coaching the Coaches team.

Period 3 started out with all players but the Critter blindfolded, and a rattly tin puck on the ice. However the visitors' blindfolds soon came off and they upped the score to 9-8. That score evened out at 10-10 by the time 6:30 remained. A bench-clearing brawl ended with the Critter trussed up like a Christmas turkey and tied into his team's net, which necessitated a brief time out while teammates extricated him. His penalty shot saw him drop the puck in favor of dropping the Elk Point goalie into the net.

The score edged up to 13-10 by the final minute of play, when the Critter called his whole team out on the ice to try and up the ante, however Coaches' goalie Ron Croteau held them all at bay, the Coaches losing by a 3 point margin and each getting a farewell hug from the playful Critter.

A stack of door prizes, including gas gift certificates, Oilers tickets and stuffed toys, was drawn for at the conclusion of the game. What made this the best hockey game ever for your reporter was taking home the grand prize of a 13 inch color TV. We'll think of the Critter every time we turn it on.

COACHES IN THE SIN BIN - The Minor Hockey Coaches ran afoul of the boys in striped shirts and ended up squashed into the penalty box while the Critter gave some helpful (?) instructions to their pint-sized coaching staff.

Elk Point Palliative Care Program "Tree of Hope"

The Elk Point Palliative Care Program is presenting their Christmas Tree of Hope campaign this year. Every light on the tree will represent a donation from area residents: white lights in memory of a loved one or colored lights for Season's Greetings.

When you make a donation of $10 or more, a light will be lit on the Christmas tree at Parkview. Your greeting and the recognition of your donation will be printed in the Elk Point Review. A tax deductible receipt will be issued upon your request. You may either mail the form below with your cheque or drop it off at Parkview or at the main office at the Elk Point Health Centre. Inquiries - 724-4358.

The Thunder report

Friday night a large crowd turned out to see what was billed to be the game of the week when Vermilion Tigers rolled into town to do battle with the Elk Point Midget Thunder. What the crowd saw was a very entertaining game ending in a 5-5 tie.

Thunder opened the scoring when tough defenceman Derek Cusack beat the Tigers' goalie on a shot from the point. Then defenceman Tyson Hawryluk put the Thunder ahead by 2 with his blast from the point. It started to look like this would be a easy win for Elk Point but when the teams retired for Coaches Corner at the end of the first period the Thunder was trailing 3-2.

Thunder dominated the second period, with goals from Ferlin Quinney and Clayton Cardinal making it 4-3 for Elk Point.

Early in the third the Thunder found themselves in trouble but managed to kill 8 minutes in penalties before scoring their last goal of the night from veteran defenceman Jeff Hughes, and this one looked like it was in the bag. But when Vermilion scored their fourth goal late in the period the momentum changed. Thunder received another penalty with only 2 minutes remaining, and with their goalie pulled for the extra attacker the Tigers tied the game on the power play with only 16 seconds left on the clock.

Sunday afternoon saw Grand Centre Oilers in town in another close game that was tied at 2 after the second period, but ended with Elk Point winning 5-3. Rene deMoissac, Brad Pankiw and Chris Berlinguette scored singles while Loren Kozicky added 2, bringing his total to 17 for this year.

This weekend the Thunder are hosting an 8 team tournament starting on Thursday night at 8 p.m. when they meet the Kitscoty Pitbulls, the only team to defeat the Thunder this year. Don't miss this one.

Children's Services Initiative gets underway

By Terri Ehler

FCSS Director

I feel privileged to have been selected for the Region # 12 Steering Committee for the Office of the Commissioner for Services for Children. The Steering Committee met for the first time this past weekend in Vegreville and another meeting is scheduled for December 8 - 10 in Grand Centre. If you have any questions or want additional information contact the regional office in Smoky Lake at 656-2040 or myself at 724-3800. The following is an update from the message from the Minister on the Children's Services initiative:

* Government is getting out of service delivery. Regional Authorities made up of community people will manage the delivery of Children's Services.

* Government will continue to deliver services until such time as the Regional Authorities are in place.

* Qualified and trained social workers will be contracted by the Regional Authorities to investigate and protect children who are abused and neglected. Essential services will not be performed by volunteers.

* Government will continue to be responsible for legislation, regulations, standards, monitoring, and funding.

* A three-year "target" was identified for regions to begin delivering their own children's services - some will be quicker - some will be slower.

* Regional Authorities will manage the delivery of Children's Services. How these Authorities will be established will be determined through public advice.

* It was this Government's decision that Indian Reserves and Metis Settlements be given the option to:

1. Join the Region in their planning process; or

2. Plan on their own and establish their own authorities. This may take much longer than three years.

* Everyone else MUST participate in the Regional planning process.

ning process.

* Children's services will be funded by the Province. Municipalities will not be required to pay for these costs from their budgets.

* The Regional Co-Chairs as Community people are the leaders of this initiative within their Regions.

STOPPING ABUSE BEFORE IT STARTS

Mary glanced nervously at her watch as the bus made its way toward her street. She wouldn't make it home on time. She was in trouble again.

Her mother confronted her as soon as she stepped inside the back door. "You're late. You know I told you to come right home from school so I could go to the store." She slapped Mary so hard her head banged against the wall.

"But Mom, the bus..." Mary tried to explain. "Don't try to give me any excuses. You were probably fooling around with your stupid friends instead of getting home here to look after your brother. Useless kid! I'll teach you to disobey me." She reached for the electric cord she kept in the kitchen.

The following are some specific factors that seem to contribute to abuse:

Destructive interactive patterns. All families develop patterns of interaction among their members, based on a variety of factors including: the family power structure, goals, communication styles, values and beliefs. Some interaction patterns can be very destructive to some or all family members. For example, if the most powerful persons in a family generally distrust everyone, the interaction patterns they establish will be based on suspicion and fear and therefore will be very harmful to everyone.

The belief that some family members should be valued more than others. Families in which certain individuals (because of their gender, role or age) are seen as more important than others provide a setting for abuse of those seen to be less important. In such families, the needs and desires of the less important persons are either ignored, denied or crushed whenever a conflict arises. As well, they are forced through violence, threats or other kinds of intimidation to meet the needs of the more important person or persons.

Next week we'll look at inadequate resources, the inability to solve problems and isolation. For more information on Family Violence Prevention or the Family Violence Prevention Support Group, call Peggy (724-2380) or FCSS (724-3800).

24 HOURS ON THE GAMBLING HELP LINE

Over a three month period between July 1 and September 30, 1995 there were 672 calls made to the Gambling Help Line:

54% of the calls were made by men, 44% by women.

68% of the callers were between the ages of 26 and 44

72% were concerned about their own gambling;

24% of the calls were about someone else's gambling (and 4% were from health care and human services professionals, seeking information).

With regard to the type of gambling:

62% of the calls concerned VLTs

8% concerned lotteries

11% concerned casinos

7% concerned bingos

More than 70% of the callers were referred to AADAC and/or to a gambling self-help group.

Calls to the Gambling Help Line are usually made during the day, typically between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Many are made in the morning, often as gamblers consider the events and losses of the previous evening. Serious financial problems and emotional distress are common themes, both for gamblers themselves and for those who are concerned about them.

For many, this is the first call they have made about problem gambling. Some are in crisis situations and require immediate sources of emergency relief. Other callers are just beginning to have concerns and are calling for information or just to talk. Most feel confused and unsure of what to do or where to go for help. All callers are met by someone who truly listens, who is caring, accepting and non-judgemental. In this way, callers learn that they are not alone and that resources are available.

Next week we'll talk more about the Gambling Help Line. But in the meantime, if you are concerned about your own or someone else's gambling, call 1-800-665-9676 or contact AADAC at 645-6346.

Help us celebrate the festive season!

The Elk Point Review is planning a special pre-Christmas issue for Tuesday, December 19, and we'd like you to be a part of it. In keeping with the theme that has been with us throughout 1995, we want to focus on the memories of Christmases past.

Do you have memories of some special Christmas in the years gone by? Do you faithfully retain one of your family's Christmas customs every year, or make one of your mother or grandmother's favorite recipes? We'd love to share the spirit of those bygone festive seasons with our readers.

Please write out your memories of the Christmas you were snowed in, Christmas with your relatives away at the war, the most memorable present you ever received.... and send them to us at Box 309, Elk Point or drop them off at the Review office.

Submissions should be 200 words or less, and typed or clearly handwritten. Deadline for submissions is Tuesday, December 12. We will use as many of the submissions as we can. If you wish to send along a picture, please put your name and phone number on the back of it, so we can return it to you. All submissions must have your name and phone number on them.

Help us to remember the fun and the festivities of those long-ago Christmas celebrations. Send your stories, recipes and anecdotes in today.

Elementary celebrates Book Festival

Elk Point Elementary School continued their longstanding tradition of celebrating the Canadian Children's Book Festival, with a variety of activities.

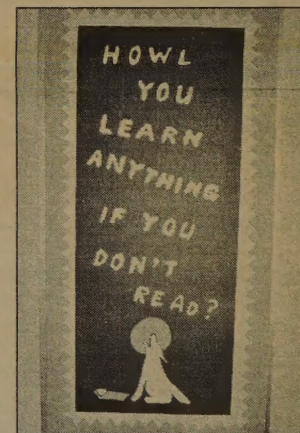

This year's classroom activity involves each class coloring a large outline of multicultural children reading stories across the Canadian landscape.

The ECS students enjoyed a special Storytime in the school library, and joined with the Grade 1 and 2 students for the Read-A-Loud, when Grade 5 and 6 students read stories on a one-to-one or one-to-two basis, as has been done during Book Festival Week for the past 13 years.

A sixteen year tradition is the Bookmark and Slogan Contest, from which the School Theme for Book Week is determined. Last year's winner was Jennifer Flanders, with her theme "Howl You Learn Anything If You Don't Read?" decorated with a howling coyote. Students have until December 1 to enter their slogans for next year.

A HOWLING SUCCESS — Jennifer Flanders' design won the 1994 contest for this year's theme.

Final farewell for Bruce Smith

By Kelly Oszust
F. G. Miller Student Journalist

On Thursday, November 23, the F. G. Miller High School held a presentation in memory of Bruce Smith. Some members of the Smith family attended.

The ceremony began with a small speech from Mr. Hawkins, in which he stated that for anyone who could not attend Bruce's funeral that this could be their chance to say goodbye. Once Mr. Hawkins was finished the Senior High Band played the touching song by Eric Clapton, "Tears in Heaven," after which "Amazing Grace" was played.

A few presentations were then made. The three organizations which contributed money toward the head stone were the Senior High Students Union, for which Justin Conrad presented the donation, the Junior High Students Union for which Tessa Sakowski presented the donation, and Peter Danyluk presented the donation from 4-H. All donations were received by Lucille Smith. As well, Mr Hawkins presented Mrs. Smith with Bruce's report card. Denise Smereka read Bruce Smith's Crusader of the Week nomination and gave the prizes to the Smith family.

The program ended with James Babenek showing a slide show in memory of Bruce Smith.

READ-A-LOUD is always a popular part of Book Festival Week, as Grade 5 and 6 students read to the ECS, Grade 1 and 2 students.

What's news at the library?

New books for almost every interest!

By Michele Ducek
Librarian

The news this week at the Library is books for almost every interest:

Mystery fans can discover another fine Canadian mystery writer in Gail Bowen with A Colder Kind of Death. This winner of the 1995 Arthur Ellis Award for Best Crime Novel has Joanne Kilbourn reliving the horror of her husband's death six years earlier when the man convicted of the killing is shot to death in prison and his wife is found strangled by Joanne's scarf. Bowen's books are set primarily in Saskatoon so it's murder with a prairie sensibility.

Dragons of Summer Flame completes the cycle of the Dragonlance Chronicles started by Margaret Weiss and Tracy Hickman. They bring summer to the circle and it an end, and a beginning.

Mary Stewart returns to the world of magic and Camelot in The Prince and the Pilgrim. Alexander, nephew of a king, seeks to avenge his father's death. Alice, daughter of a pilgrim to the Holy Land, is helping to bring a young fugitive to safety—a fugitive who has what may or may not be the Holy Grail. When the prince and the pilgrim meet, something wonderful is bound to happen.

Considered by many to be a living saint, Mother Teresa has gained international renown for her work among the poor in Calcutta. Now readers can gain a look into her daily life and the principles she lives by in A Simple Path.

Pierre Berton has made a career out of popularizing Canadian history. He turns to his personal history with My Times: Living With History, 1947 - 1995. This book traces his career from its beginnings to the present day.

Santas Anonymous gets underway again

Elk Point Lioness Club is once again starting up their Santas Anonymous campaign, with donation boxes for gifts and cash already in place. The gift boxes are located in various stores, at the schools and in the library, and gifts placed in these boxes should be left unwrapped.

Jars for cash donations are located in both local banks, or these donations may also be sent to the Elk Point and District Lioness Club, Box 432, Elk Point.

If you or someone you know is in need of the service of Santas Anonymous, please call 724-4106 before the December 20 deadline. For further information or if you have any questions, please call 724-4337.

Thank you once again for your support of the Lioness Santas Anonymous campaign.

Golf Club warms up winter with Jamboree

Elk Point Golf and Country Club has found a new way to chase off the winter blues as they hosted a very successful country jamboree on November 18 at Armistice Hall. All proceeds from the event and the dance which followed went to the Golf Club.

Lois Bouchard of Boscome MCd the evening, which started off with fiddle music by Homer Poitras, accompanied by Arnie Price and August Collins on guitar. Archie Collins was the evening's first vocalist, and was followed by the impressive harmonica talents of Bernadette Godolin. Maurice Dubeau of St. Lina with country vocals, Vicki Brooker with cowboy poetry, and Gordon Collins with old-time fiddle music. Jim Williams of St. Vincent Lake and Julie Williams of Mallaig offered vintage country vocals and teamed up for a duet. Andy Sidor of Ashmont and Shirley Saunders of Fork Lake wound up the first half of the evening with more country vocal favorites.

Following a brief intermission with door prize draws won by Ed Vogel and Bill Seniuk and a 50-50 draw which went to Ray Ouellette of Grand Centre, the second set started off with local favorites Roy Scott on the mule bones, and John Drobot with his hilarious tales of life at the Wagon Wheel Ranch.

Ashmont's own Grandpa Jones gave the evening a Grand Old Opry feeling, while Eleanor Ouellette of Grand Centre sang more country favorites, one in duet with Arnie Price. Oscar Constantine of Morinville was a special guest soloist, while August and Archie Collins and Bernadette Godolin added a blues and bluegrass note. Arnie Price was the final vocalist of the evening, with one of his numbers written by himself, and the program wrapped up with several numbers combining the fiddle talents of Homer Poitras, Gordon and August Collins. All musical performances were backed up by Roxanne Bergheim on drums.
